

Job title: Project Management performing employee with good knowledge in Infrastructure Design for Group Data Centre

Location: Germany, Dusseldorf

General requirements:

University degree in Computer Science or relevant

Advanced knowledge of German language (must)

Fluency in English language

Core competencies, knowledge and experience:

- Strong IT delivery management background with specific experience in infrastructure implementation
- Well developed IT knowledge across a broad range of IT topics
- Strong Project Management skills
- Strong capabilities and experience in coordinating role
- Deep knowledge and experience on management of virtualized infrastructure environment
- Able to interact with application owner and main infrastructure stakeholder as well as technology architecture to identify the customer needs and translate the demand into an IT infrastructure design according to the Vodafone strategies
- International experience and background in a complex business environment essential as well as ability to work across an international and distributed team in a complex business environment

Must have technical/professional qualifications:

- Well developed technical knowledge across a broad range of IT topics
- Strong communication and interpersonal skills, able to deal with customers and internal teams to deliver results
- In-depth knowledge of IT and data centre process standards
- Ability to work across an international and distributed team
- Experience and background in service-and project-management in a complex business environment essential.

Your tasks:

- To represent the bridge between department and development.
- To assist in the analysis of the technical requirements of the application and coordinate the implementation.
- To take over the communication and coordination with the stakeholders of the project/application.
- As a further task, to control external software suppliers and partners with regard to service provision, project progress and efficiency.
- To plan and manage IT projects in terms of time, effort, quality and costs up to production introduction.
- To provide a qualitative and timely implementation in compliance with agreed technology-focused project objectives.
- Furthermore, to be involved in directing the system integration and assist in the quality assurance of development results.

Your skills:

- Several years of professional experience and knowledge in IT project management, ideally in the area of application management.
- Good understanding of common software architecture approaches for business applications and current technologies (frontend, backend, databases).
- You have good facilitation, communication and coordination skills, as well as a level-headed approach even in difficult situations.
- Characterized by your solution-oriented nature, proactively acting, assertiveness and high self-motivation.
- Experience in dealing with conflicts.

Please send your CV to b.hoti@puricity.com stating your earliest possible starting date.